

Safer places of Worship

Trees

Trees can obstruct natural surveillance and can also be used as cover by criminals, as well as encouraging children to use the areas around the building as a playground. Branches should, therefore, be cut from the main trunk to a height of at least five feet from the ground to both maintain maximum vision and discourage climbing activities.

